CONDUCTOR McDONALD HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

Conductor James McDonald of the C. & O. had a narrow escape from a horrible death last Saturday morning. No. 37 had pulled into the Louisa station, but before it stopped the conductor stepped off to get his orders. As he stepped from the train his foot slipped and he fell into the gutter between the rails and the high sidewalk. A cry of horror went up from the many who saw it, but with rare presence of mind the conductor dragged himself as closely as possible to the curb and although two or three coaches passed before it could be entirely stopped he received no injury. If he had not acted thus wisely he possibly would have carried him under the train. Captain McDonald's home is in Ashland. He is a very popular employee.

On last Sunday Dr. W. B. McClure, of Lexington, removed the tonsils and adenoids from the throat of Ernest, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McClure. McClure.

PARTICULARS OF TWO FATAL ACCIDENTS.

DETAILS OF FATALITIES WHICH OCCURRED LAST WEEK.

Little Otha Fairchild.

Little Otha Fairchild, daughter of Mrs. Greer, of Louisa, was buried in the family burial grounds near Salyersville. Since our last issue we have learned the particulars of the accident which caused her death. Mrs. Greer's sister, a girl about fourteen years old, shot the child with a shot gun that she believed was loaded. Playfully pointing the gun toward the child she pulled the trigger and the load tore away a portion of Little Otha's thigh. The latter was climbing a fence at the time only a few feet away. She lived only a few hours.

The child and her small brother had gone from Louisa for a visit to the home of their grandparents near Salyersville only a few days before the accident occurred. The girl who was the innocent perpetrator of the sad fatality is almost prostrated. She has been in ill health most of her life and it is feared the result of this shock will be serious.

Miss Jessie Crank.

The body of Miss Jessie Crank, who was killed in California last week, arrived at the home of her parents at Yatesville, this county, and was buried last Monday. A large crowd was present. Rev. H. B. Hewlett conducted the services.

Miss Crank was one of a party of four killed when a fast train struck their automobile at a road crossing. The accident happened eight miles from San Francisco. The machine was being driven by Miss Crank's fiancé. With them was a newly married couple.

Miss Jessie had planned a trip to this county, to visit her parents, and expected to come within a month. Her brother, who is permanently located in California, brought the body home.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

Tuesday afternoon a regular preaching service was held at the home of Miss Mattie Wallace, near this city, for the benefit of her aged grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Layne. The services were conducted by the Rev. F. F. Shannon in the room of the aged woman who for many years has been an invalid and most of the time unable to leave her bed. The service consisted of hymns, two solos by Miss Kate Freese, prayer and sermon. Mr. Shannon preached most appropriately and in his best and most touching way. The beautiful service was much enjoyed by all and most of all by the octogenarian for whose pleasure and benefit it was held.

BRIDE OF FEW MONTHS FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

The second episode of a boy and girl romance occurred when Mrs. Christine M. Watson filed a petition for a divorce from Jack Watson, alleging cruelty. It will be recalled that last January Mrs. Watson, 17 years old was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Whitcomb, of Ashland, and Jack Watson, 19 years old, son of the late Dr. J. D. Watson, of Deerfield, Kans., who was then attending High School, eloped during school hours to Catlettsburg where they were married.

MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS IN BOYD COUNTY JAIL

Quite a little interest is being taken in the Moonlight School conducted at the Boyd county jail at Catlettsburg. Jailer Sam DeBord, who was among the very first in the state if not the first, to establish this form of education, has been working all winter with his school, and he has it down to such a system now that practically every inmate can read and write. The jailer, with the help of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart and the Kentucky Illiteracy Society has kept his school going with splendid success, yet he has been hindered in his work by the expiration of the time of some of his very best teachers. He has spent much time acting as teacher himself. Many prisoners sit up far into the night, brushing the midnight oil. It seems that the foreign prisoners are among the most interested.

ROY JORDAN RETURNS HOME

Portsmouth, July 13.—Roy Jordan Flat Woods, near Lucasville, who was recently acquitted of a charge of murdering his wife, Mrs. Pamela Jordan, whose dead body was found at their home Tuesday morning, May 2, last, and his eldest son, Roy Jordan, Jr., left Monday for Lawrence county, Ky., their old home, where they will remain. The Jordan farm, Flat Woods, has been leased to J. A. Jordan, a distant relative of Roy's, who came over from Kentucky to look after the cultivation of the land.

Before leaving Ohio, the father called Judge Beatty probate court, and demanded the custody of his three younger sons, James, 13, George, 9, and Fred 3, who are inmates of the Scioto county Children's Home. The Judge refused the request and stated that he intended to see that the Jordan children remained in the local institution until their trial was completed.

The Jordan trial was one of the most unique criminal cases ever tried in the local courts. The trial started Tuesday, June 27, and was completed and submitted to the grand jury at 4:20 o'clock Saturday, July 1. An hour later a verdict of acquittal was returned and the accused was freed.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will build Long Fork Railway up left, Beaver Creek for a distance of 26 miles, and this railroad will connect with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway at the forks of Right and Left Beaver and extend to Weeksbury.

This railway makes accessible 50,000 acres of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation's property, and the development of 20,000 acres will be begun at once, plans providing for the opening of sufficient mines to produce 1,000,000 tons of coal each year.

NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST FROM THE WORLD AT LARGE.

FRIDAY

The Austro-Germans appear to have halted, temporary at least, the Russian advance along the Stokhod.
Both sides are reported to be hurrying huge re-enforcements of men and guns into this titanic struggle. On the lower strips, the Russians are striking in an effort to crush Gen.
von Bothmer and flank the entire Austro-German line. The Austrians admit the Russians penetrated von Bothmer's front at some points, but assert they were driven out again in counter attacks.

Important statements regarding operations on the western front were made in London by Premier Asquith the house of commons, said the Franco-British drive was just beginning and that it would be continued indefinitely if necessary to achieve the objective sought. Mr. Lloyd-George presiding at a conference on equipment, said the tide of victory was now flowing in the direction of the Allies and the output of ammunition soon would be overwhelming.

SATURDAY

In a renewal of the Allied offensive the British yesterday drove the Germans out of their second line positions along a four mile front from Basentinle-Petit to Longueval. The strategic importance of the advance lies in the fact that it has straightened out the line of the Allies on the Western front.
The assault was preceded by a bombardment of only one day. Counter attacks by the Germans failed.

oners.

WEST VIRGINIA
ITEMS OF NEWS.

(Wayne News).
Homer Marcum was recently appointed to a government position at Washington, D. C. He will soon take up his duties at that place.

A recent dispatch from Washington says that W. B. Spierlock has been recommended by Senator Chilton for postmaster at Wayne.

There were two showers in Wayne Monday night besides the one that J. Pluvins gave. Some of the open-hearted folk of Wayne showed their big free spirits by giving Mr. and Mrs. Lat Crum and Mr. and Mrs. Rush Billups each a shower.

Mr. and Mrs. Crum last week suffered the ill fortune of losing their home by fire, while Mr. and Mrs. Billups are Wayne's newest married folks.

The old story of the family dog sacrificing its own life for that of its master was repeated last Thursday morning when fire destroyed the home of Lat Crum, Deputy clerk of Wayne county, at Wayne.

Mr. Crum was the only occupant of his home Wednesday night his wife and son, George, being in Catlettsburg visiting relatives. He was awakened by the cries of the family poodle at 2 A. M. in time to narrowly escape. The dog, however, lost its life presumably in its efforts to rescue the other members of the household whom it thought were at home.

Eustace Ferguson, who escaped jail last December and who is wanted in this county on the charge of cutting Sherman Maynard, has been recaptured. He was brought to jail Monday by detective Sam Kinser.

Wayne county officers are seeking George Justice, a resident of Dingess who is charged with having shot John Dingess a resident of that town. The shooting occurred last Thursday. Dingess is not in a serious condition the bullet having only pierced his left shoulder. Justice is said to have outwitted the officers and made good his escape to Kentucky.

Miss Letha Watts, treasurer of the Prisoners Relief Society, gave out the following statement yesterday prior to her departure for Wayne where she will spend a few days with friends:

"Several New York millionaires have lately become interested in our work and have been making investigation with the view of furnishing us the financial aid necessary for the proper conduct of the work. This week we have received letters from the gentlemen who have offered us assistance and they requested that Mr. Dudding meet them in New York City at an early date, and they would turn over the endowment to him. A committee has been selected to go to accompany Mr. Dudding as our friends are arranging for our party to make several addresses in New York city."

Active at Seventy
Many people at seventy attribute their good health to SCOTT'S EMULSION because its concentrated nourishment creates permanent body-power, and because it is devoid of drugs or stimulants.
Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 13-25

"Attorney Hugh S. Byrre will be one of the party. This will be a big thing for the City of Huntington, as we will soon employ over one hundred people in our offices here. We are preparing now to put on twenty-five extra stenographers to handle increased correspondence."—Herald.

At the present time, William White, charged with carrying concealed weapons, is the instructor. There is only one class at the present session, but as new prisoners enter the jail, other classes are added, according to their needs. The third grade is as far as the school at La DeBord advances its scholars.

A negro identified as Henry Daugherty, of Knoxville, Tenn., was severely injured when struck by a Chesapeake & Ohio freight train at Ceredo last Friday morning.

A white man, identified as John Gee, of Bantree, W. Va., died Friday morning at Ceredo, after being struck by the train.

Geed, Daugherty and a man known as Carson Payne were walking along the track west of the depot when a west bound freight approached. Payne was not injured.

James Border was convicted at Williamson, W. Va., in Circuit Court on murder in the second for the killing of Bud Wright at Nolan. Frank Border, who was an accessory, was released. Sentence has not been passed.

The murder case of Guy Beavers and Clarence Lee, charged with killing John Dameron near Red Jacket, was continued until October 7th, on motion of the state. The accused were released after giving $10,000 bond.

James Crawford, alleged slayer of Lewis Rutherford, was convicted in Circuit Court in Williamson, W. Va., of voluntary manslaughter.

Judge F. C. Leftwich, of Huntington, who presided at the trial sentenced Crawford to a three year term in the penitentiary after overruling a motion to set aside the verdict.

Thirty day stay of execution was granted to permit of applying to the state supreme court for a writ of error and supersedeas and the prisoner was released on bond in the sum of $10,000.

That Crawford was not brought to trial until nearly six years after the death of Lewis Rutherford, who was one of the substantial citizens of the county, was advanced by the defense to show some ulterior motive for the prosecution.

On Sunday afternoon at Huntington, Mrs. Mildred Kitchen aged ninety-six years, was baptised in the Ohio river by Rev. J. C. McLellan of the Walker Memorial Church. Services marking her admittance into the church as a candidate for baptism were held at her home preceding her immersion.

"The Defender" is the name of a small pamphlet being sent out by the Republican headquarters in New York. It is filled with the patent testimonials of Republicans as to why traveling salesmen vote the Republican ticket. Those who do vote the Republican ticket vote it just like individuals of any other class vote it. The fact that they are traveling salesmen does not fix their politics any particular way. Such testimonials will not catch the votes of any Democratic salesmen. They can not be caught on a pin book, and it is an insult to their intelligence to try it.

The Kentucky Press Association was handsomely entertained at Ashland last week and the papers all over the State this week are full of praise for the hustling city of the mountains. Ashland was a revelation to the newspaper men. It has gone along all too quietly, doing big things in the way of business. Also, in civic matters the city is right at the front.

There can no longer be any doubt about prosperity being abroad in the United States when the fact is admitted by the Cincinnati Enquirer, which hates every Democratic administration and supports the Republican ticket in almost every campaign. Speaking editorially about the enormous volume of business now being handled in this country, notwithstanding the great damage being done to our trade by the war restriction of the seas, it says:

"With all this illegal, atrocious and unjust treatment of our export trade, the business of the country grows greater, expands and extends, and the prospects of still larger volumes and values of trade during the coming two years are very brilliant and most encouraging."

The United States is enjoying the greatest prosperity in its history, in spite of the European war. This is not denied by any one, but some Republican politicians are making a desperate effort to rob President Wilson's administration of any credit for the booming business.

Statistics carefully gathered show that less than two per cent of the business of the country is foreign business, which refutes the general statement made by the politicians that the present prosperity is due to the war in Europe. The high prices of a lot of things are due to the war. Everything in which dyes are used has reached high prices because we have never learned to make them in this country, and the English navy has been able to prevent Germany from shipping any products in or out. The price of paper is outrageously high because we no longer can get rags and dyes and other raw material from Europe. Cotton and wheat and lumber have been hampered by lack of sea shipping and by the discontinuance of many foreign markets, and these articles have suffered. Yet in spite of these facts as stated in the outset, business is booming in the United States.

The new banking law, one of the first acts of the Wilson administration, prevented a panic when the European war broke out, as it will always prevent in the future. This law is having more to do with prosperity than any other one thing. A confidence that cannot be broken is established by this law. Business men can get the money they need in their business at all times on safe security. The old system that worked by contraries has been eliminated. We had contraction of money when we needed expansion, and vice versa. The wonderful new law is just flexible enough to meet the shifting requirements of business. No more talk of lack of "confidence" being the cause of business depression, because there "aint no sich animule" any more.

JOBS OPEN TO BIG SANDY MEN

The Big Sandy News knows of a dozen or more jobs open to men who want steady employment at good wages until about January 1st. It is desirable out-of-doors work and would suit young men from the farms, now that the crops are made. Good board cheap. Railroad fare paid both ways to those who stay long enough to justify it. The location and climate are favorable. No work in the water. A bunch of Big Sandians would find this pleasant and profitable employment. For further particulars call or write at once to the Big Sandy News at Louisa.

Mrs. Helen Gearheart and Mrs. T. W. Shank will go to Ashland Friday to represent the Louisa Womens Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South in the district meeting to be held there Friday and Saturday.

.....Two Classes of Graduates

Last month was commencement month. Hundreds of youthful graduates received diplomas, applause and large quantities of more or less useful advice as they left the institutions in which they had labored and learned, to face the problems and battles of the world or to enter higher schools of learning.

A little more advice piled on that already administered surely will not be radically amiss, so we will call attention to the idea "that a little learning is a dangerous thing," most young people are wiser for their schooling and are ready to face responsibility after graduation from High school or college with a confidence grounded in a conviction of work well done. Others have simply been exposed to education and have acquired merely a veneer of learning which is too shallow to endure.

Usually those of the first class are eager to learn more about the things which they have been studying in school and the further pursuit of which may lead to honor and preferment. This ambition should be encouraged on the part of educators and parents. Young men and women who acquire studious habits in school are apt to persevere in these habits after graduation. On the other hand, members of the veneered class are all too anxious to frame their diplomas and promptly forget all about the matters brought to their attention in student days, and as for further educational development why—nothing can be said.

....Girls Who Make Poor Wives....

We never see a petted, pampered girl who is yielded to in every whim by servants and parents that we do not sigh with pity for the man who will some day be her husband. It is the worshiped daughter who has been taught that her whims and wishes are supreme in a household, who makes marriage a failure all her life. She has had her way in things great and small; and when she desired dresses, pleasures or journeys which were beyond the family purse she carried the day with tears or sulks, or posing as a martyr. The parents for her sake, hoping finally to see her well married, they carefully hide her faults from her suitors who seek her hand and she is ever ready with smiles and allurements to win the hearts of men, and the average man is blind to the faults of a pretty girl as a newly hatched bird is blind to the worms upon the trees about him. He thinks her little pettish ways are mere girlish moods; but when she becomes his wife and reveals her selfish and cruel nature, he is grieved and hurt to think fate has been so unkind to him.

Advice to Our Young Lady Readers.

Allow no time to pass without brightening someone's life. Within five minutes' walk of you there is some one tragedy-ridden with which Shakespeare's King Lear or Victor Hugo's Jean Valjean has no power. Go out and brighten somebody's life with a cheering word or smile or flower. Take a good book and read a chapter to that blind man. Go up that dark alley and make that invalid woman laugh with some good story. Go to that house from which that child has been taken by death and tell the father and mother what an escape the child has had from the winter of earth into the spring of heaven.

Young woman, live to make others happy and you will be happy! Live for yourself and you will be miserable! There never has been an exception to the rule, there never will be an exception.

A Contented Spirit.

Remember, if you have only what is called an ordinary home, that the great deliverers of the world have all come from such a home. And there may be seated reading at your evening stand a child who shall be potent for the ages. Just enroll the scroll of men mighty in church and state, and you will find they nearly all came from the humblest of homes. Genius almost runs out in the third and fourth generation. You cannot find in all history an instance where the fourth generation of extraordinary people amount to anything. Columbus came from a weaver's hut. Demosthenes from a cutter's cellar. Bloomfield and Missionary Carey from a shoemaker's bench. Arkwright from a barber's shop and He whose name is high over all in earth and air and sky from a mangle.

Let us all be content with such things as we have. God is just as good in what he keeps away from us as in what he gives us. Even a knut may be useful if it is at the end of a thread. The spider draws poison out of a fly; and happiness is a heavenly elixir and the contented spirit extracts it not from the rhododendron of the hills, but from the lily of the valley.

The religious man who goes about with a long face and his lip hanging down over his chin, has mistaken a case of dyspepsia for a change of heart. The true Christian has a ready-made smile always on tap and is glad in heart all day long, from January 1 till the general judgment.

Every man's life is a failure who does not try to do something to leave the world richer than he found it.

On St. Patrick's Night

By EUNICE BLAKE.

"Morn O'Rourke," said the postman on the morning of St. Patrick's day, handing a mail which answered his sister's two letters. "Any such person here?"

"That's myself," said the girl, taking the mail. The postman went on, and she returned to the kitchen. One of the mirrors bore a black border and a travel stamp. She tore off the envelope and read the contents, from her sister in Ireland:

Dear Nora—I have to tell you some bad news. Our uncle Patrick, who has been in the grocery business in Dublin, is dead. But there's some good news too. He made a lot of money, and, not having any wife or children, he has left it all to you and me. We will have about $10,000 apiece. Your loving sister, BRIDGET.

The bad part of the news had little effect on Nora, for she had never seen her uncle, and the legacy of $10,000 was a matter of great delight. She was so absorbed in the latter that she forgot for some time to open her other letter; then she turned her attention to the other letter. It was from Patrick Doolan, asking her to go with him to the ball to be given on the night of St. Patrick's day, and he hoped that she would give him an answer to a question that he would ask her.

She knew very well what that question would be, but was in doubt as to her answer. She held in her hand the letter advising her of her legacy and her lower's note, turning from one to the other back and forth. Pat Doolan was a money maker, owning a number of teams, with which he did his hiring. Nora's poverty had constituted her to consider his proposition of marriage, remembering that he would be able to take her from the home and her door. But reflections rather led her to favor young Michael O'Connor, who was bright and active, but had not the faculty of holding on to what he made. She knew that both Pat and Mike would be at the ball on St. Patrick's evening, and she had a plan to assist her in the matter between them. During the afternoon she went to see her friend, Kathleen Clancy, and said to her:

"Kath, I'm going to say something tonight to Pat Doolan that may make him get sweet on you."

"What are you going to tell him?"

"That your uncle in Ireland is dead and has left you $10,000."

"But I haven't any uncle in Ireland."

"Never mind that. Likely Pat won't mention the matter to you. If he does don't tell him the truth till tomorrow, and I'll give you something pretty."

Nora went to the ball with Pat and on the way told him that she knew a girl who that morning had received a legacy of $2,000 by the death of an uncle in Ireland. Pat asked who was the girl, and Nora gave him to understand that she was Kathleen Clancy.

During the evening Pat did not refer to the answer to his proposition. Kathleen, not being a very pretty girl, was something of a wall flower.

"I'm sorry for the poor girl," said Pat, "sitting around with no one to ask her to dance. I'm minded to go and ask her myself."

"That's right," said Nora. "She'll appreciate the attention."

Pat asked Kathleen to dance and, having danced with her once, he concluded to ask her again. Meanwhile Mike O'Connor danced with Miss O'Rourke. He asked her to dance with him again, but she declined. To do so would not have accorded with her plan.

When Pat and Nora were going home from the ball, instead of pressing her for an answer to his proposal, he said to her:

"Nora, I don't like your dancing with that miserable fellow, O'Connor."

"I only danced with him once."

"That's enough. You shouldn't have danced with him at all."

"I'm sorry," said Nora, with apparent penitence.

When Pat left her at the door she said to him:

"I suppose you don't want the answer you said you were looking for?"

"Not tonight. I'm thinking about your dancing with that spalpeen O'Connor. Maybe I'll get over it in time."

"That won't do you any good, for I won't get over what you've done this night. It's not Kathleen, whose uncle in Ireland has died and left her $10,000, but my own uncle has left that money to me. I told you it was Kathleen to see if you could be switched off by a bait of a legacy, and I've found that you don't value me so much as the fortune. Good night and goodby."

"Nora"—he began in a supplicating tone, but he got no further, for she shut the door in his face.

When Nora and Kathleen met again Nora learned that Pat had not mentioned the legacy, but he had asked Kathleen to go to a ball with him to come off a week later. Then Nora told her friend that hushman as she had helped her to find out that the man she had thought of marrying could be so easily turned away from her she would keep her promise to give her something pretty. When she received her fortune she presented her friend with a set of furs.

Nora married Mike O'Connor, and under her tutelage in careful expenditure of money he became prosperous. Kathleen was dropped by Doolan, who was beside himself with chagrin when he learned how he had been tricked. He never forgave Nora O'Rourke for having fooled him, but what she had done made her really more desirable.

THREE TO TREAT DATE.

It is the custom to treat one's friends, and on many thousands of Illinois farms this will be done as an essential part of planting the crop this year. So thoroughly has this lesson been taught throughout the state that every farmer who is interested in improving his crop will think about it if he does not actually treat the seed he uses. It is cheering once to write to point to a piece of work and say, "This thing has been accomplished."

The success of the campaign for oats must eradication gives encouragement for many other kinds of work now under way.—Orange-Judd Express.

SOUND ALFA.

Farmers Should Begin Now to Get Land in Condition.

Farmers in Oklahoma who expect to sow a field of alfalfa next fall should begin now to get that piece of land in the best of condition for this valuable crop, says Professor Deane of the Oklahoma experiment station. It is too common a practice not to plan the crop for the farm until the season is to be planned. This should not be the case, and especially in this true for alfalfa. Many failures in securing a good stand of alfalfa are due to the laxity in the preparation of the seed bed.

To begin with, select a well drained piece of land. Alfalfa should not have "wet feet." Plow the land now. Don't wait until next spring. Test this soil for acidity with litmus paper or send samples from different parts of the field to the state department of the A. and M. college at Stillwater. If the soil is acid an application of ground limestone is necessary to correct the acidity or sourness. The limestone should be applied this winter so as to give it time to react with the soil before the alfalfa is sown. Alfalfa will not thrive on acid soil.

The best alfalfa seed to select as early to the spring as the weather will permit, and at intervals of about a week or ten days until the spring crop is to be planted. This is necessary to kill the weeds. However, it is almost impossible to kill all the weeds in the way to the spring, but if a cultivated crop is planted the alfalfa that such a crop should mature during the summer will get the soil in good condition, breaking down the weeds. Alfalfa should not be bothered with weeds.

Should the soil show up to be acid, it will be necessary to inoculate before sowing next fall.

If heavy manure is available apply it to the soil this winter. This will be of value in securing a good stand of alfalfa next fall, as well as in increasing the yield of the cultivated crop the coming season. If the proper attention is given to the preparation of the seed bed a better stand and consequently a heavier yield is secured. It will more than repay the farmer for his extra efforts in establishing the crop on his farm.

SCOOPING FROM BOTTOM OF CRIB.

The illustration shows a simple device by means of which you can quickly shovel corn from the bottom of a crib. The crib is scooped in through small doors near the roof and runs down gradually as it is removed from the space as shown. It cannot run out on the ground, as the incline is always only a small quantity down at a time. The opening is closed with doors (A), which are hung about five feet long. These are hooked up when corn is needed.

This method works especially well with shelled corn and not only facilitates handling the grain, but enables good ventilation, discourages rats and mice and prevents accumulation of shelled corn and dirt at the bottom of the bins.—Farm and Home.

Now Plants From China.

After a three year trip in the far east P. N. Meyer, plant explorer of the department of agriculture, has recently returned to Washington with interesting specimens of seeds, roots, cuttings, etc. These were collected in cold Manchurian regions and arid Turkistan. One of the interesting items secured by the specialist is the jujube, which may be suitable for use in the southwest; a wild peach resistant to alkali, cold and drought; Chinese persimmons, vegetable and timber bamboos, Chinese vegetables and roses.

The jujube tree bears a heavy crop of a brownish fruit, delicious when fresh, when dried offers a confection similar in taste to the Persian date. It is claimed it can withstand cold, drought and neglect, and seedlings have been successfully grown at the plant introduction garden at Chico, Cal. Experiments are under way to determine the usefulness of the wild peach for root stock, for grafting with different hardy American varieties. A vegetable novelty now under experiment is a Chinese radish with a root as large as the head of a child. Professor Meyer reports that the chestnut blight was found in both China and Japan. He found chestnut trees which were to some degree blight resistant.

CASH IN ADVANCE
PLAN TO BE ADOPTED

On October 15th, 1916, the Big Sandy News Subscription List will be on a New Basis, and the Paper will be Sent Only until the Date Paid in Advance.

INCREASED COST OF PRODUCTION FORCES THIS CHANGE

As announced in the above headline the Big Sandy News will change its policy in handling the subscription list. We are compelled either to increase the subscription to $1.50 per year or to take steps that will stop all leaks and waste. We hope by doing the latter to keep the subscription price at one dollar.

We are making announcement of our new policy several months in advance of its adoption so that all our friends and subscribers will have ample time to get on the new basis.

It has been customary from "time immemorial" almost, for country papers to extend credit to subscribers and to continue sending the paper until death, poverty, disease, hopelessness, delinquency, or an earthquake caused a break. This is bad business and often times very unsatisfactory. Some people get the impression that the publisher is trying to force the paper on them. This is one thing the publisher of the Big Sandy News can truthfully say he has never intended nor had any desire to do. In soliciting we do not even insist strongly upon anyone subscribing for the paper, because we never want to push it upon any person. Our efforts are directed chiefly to making a paper worth the subscription price. Nevertheless, a few people seem to think the paper is being forced upon them when it continues beyond the date paid for.

On the other hand, we have had a number of subscribers to resent our action in stopping the paper at the expiration of the period paid for, saying it was a reflection on their credit. This is the source from which we anticipate most of the trouble that is likely to come in changing to a strictly cash in advance system. But when the change is made it will be absolutely necessary to enforce it impartially. The mailing list will be in charge of an employee who doesn't know any better than to stop every subscription at its paid expiration.

Although as above stated, the proposition has two sides, we believe our friends and patrons will like the new system, better. We ask their kind cooperation in establishing this more business-like plan.

Subscription Rates.

RAILROAD WAGES

Shall they be determined by Industrial Warfare or Federal Inquiry?

To the American Public:

Do you believe in arbitration or industrial warfare?

The train employees on all the railroads are voting whether they will give their leaders authority to tie up the commerce of the country to enforce their demands for a 100 million dollar wage increase.

The railroads are in the public service—your service. This army of employees is in the public service—your service.

You pay for rail transportation 3 billion dollars a year, and 44 cents out of every dollar from you goes to the employees.

On all the Southern railroads in 1915, seventy-five per cent of the train employees earned these wages (lowest, highest and average of all) as shown by the payrolls—

	Passenger		Freight		Yard
	Range	Average	Range	Average	Range	Average
Engineers	$1972	$2306	$1455	$1916	$1156	$1566
	3810		3505		2424
Conductors	1553	1847	1353	1580	1053	1246
	2696		2358		1749
Firemen	943	1209	649	979	406	777
	1652		1638		1302
Brakemen	957	1109	755	958	754	990
	1736		1854		1405

The average yearly wage payments to all Southern train employees (including those who worked only part of the year) as shown by the 1915 payrolls were—

	Passenger	Freight	Yard
Engineers	$2144	$1712	$1313
Conductors	1723	1488	1157
Firemen	1096	865	688
Brakemen	1013	845	668

A 100 million dollar wage increase for men in freight and yard service (less than one-fifth of all employees) is equal to a 5 per cent advance in all freight rates.

The managers of the railroads, as trustees for the public, have no right to place this burden on the cost of transportation to you without a clear mandate from a public tribunal speaking for you.

The railroads have proposed the settlement of this controversy either under the existing national arbitration law, or by reference to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This offer has been refused by the employees' representatives.

Shall a nation-wide strike or an investigation under the Government determine this issue?

SNOOKY OOKUMS.

BIG DAMAGE BILL RESULT OF WAYNE CONSTABLE'S ACT.

Damages to the extent of $57,000 are demanded in four suits entered in Federal court by Jacob Blair, an infant, one against S. Billups, sheriff of Wayne county, one against the sheriff and his sureties, another against John Doss, constable of Butler district in Wayne county, and the last against John Doss and his sureties. Blair, the plaintiff is 18 years old.

The suit is styled "State of West Virginia, which sues for the use and benefit of Jacob Blair, an infant under the age of twenty-one, by W. D. Blair, his next friend." The plaintiff alleges false arrest and imprisonment in March 1916, saying that John Doss, with two other men, took him into custody at the point of a pistol, threatening to kill him if he didn't throw up his hands.

At the time of the arrest Blair states that he, with another boy was walking along the Norfolk & Western railroad tracks, and that Doss took him to Fort Gay, which was about one and one-half miles from the scene of the arrest. It is further alleged by the plaintiff that he protested his innocence of the cause of arrest, Doss claiming nevertheless that Blair was Dick Saunders, the man wanted. According to the testimony, Doss failed to show a warrant for Blair.

Blair says that the sheriff, J. S. Billups caused him to be put in jail, and kept there from 1:00 o'clock p. m., until three the next afternoon. It is further stated that numerous offers to prove his identity were rejected by the constable.

The suit against the sheriff and his sureties calls for damages in the sum of $40,000, in debt; that against the sheriff names $10,000 as damages, trespass on the case; the one against Doss, the constable, and sureties calls for $3,500, in debt; and that against the constable alone calls for $3,500 trespass on the case.

The suits were addressed to Edwin M. Kestley, clerk of the Federal court summonses to be issued to the August rules.

TOO TALL AND THIN.

It is predicted that nearly 1,200 of the Kentucky guardsmen now encamped at Fort Thomas will not be mustered into service because of failure to pass the physical examination required by the War Department. While the Kentucky soldier boys are failing to meet the standards set by the Federal authorities for service in the army, and while a heavy expense is being saddled on the Government by taking these men up to Fort Thomas and then sending them back after a week or two, we are inclined to find more fault with the policy of the War Department than with the physical fitness of Kentucky men.

The chief reason for chopping Kentucky's three regiments into bits is that Kentuckians are found to be too thin for their height. Kentuckians were just as thin and just as tall during the Civil War, and we can find no authority who cares to opine that Kentuckians failed to stand up under the stress and strain of the campaigns in the Southland. Thin they certainly were, but on the march, in the charge and under the burdens of camp work they did their "bit" with as much ease and grace as their bulkier brothers from Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York and up there in the shoulder blade of the nation's frame, where men are built close to the ground and very thick. When it comes to fighting among the rocks and bushes of Mexico, with the sun hot enough to boil eggs, we doubt very much if "beef" could be considered much of an asset. We confess to the opinion that nine out of ten of these light-weights who are "culled" in Kentucky could walk the sox off the same number of huskier rookies from other States; could thrive better on army fare; could stand up just as well under the fighting; and finish in better humor. We cannot see that the provision for height and weight can be made applicable to all sections of the country. Most of the light-weights being turned down now probably have strength equal to that of the cherubimic militiaman of the North; they just don't carry excessive "meat."

If the War Department wants to build up an army, it should not subject the men of this section to the same requirements as to height and weight that are used in the North and West. The thin men of Kentucky will stack up all right when it comes to doing the work.—Owensboro Inquirer.

To the Voters of the Seventh Appellate District

As the campaign for the Republican nomination for Appellate Judge in the Seventh Appellate District of Kentucky draws to a close, it becomes readily apparent who will win. With a good majority in the Tenth and with a good vote in every county in the district Judge Kirk will come under the wire with a large majority. And why shouldn't he? Let us consider it a moment from a party standpoint. As a reward for faithful and loyal work the Republican party should bestow its honors upon the man who has rendered her the best services—the man who has fought most valiantly for her success—the man who has made sacrifices that her principles might triumph. It is the soldier on the firing line—the man who faces the mouth of the blazing cannon—that is entitled to this country's honors, and not the man who scarcely knows the smell of powder. What has Judge Kirk's opponents done for the success of the Republican party? Have they gone to the front, as Judge Kirk has done, and faced the battle? Have they given of their time, means and brains, as he has done, in fair weather and foul, and made impoverishing sacrifices, that the great Republican party might live and prosper and go forward? If so, when and where? They make a great deal about the money Judge Kirk has drawn in salaries, they fail to state that aside from the amount he has given to churches and schools and the relief of the poor, the great bulk of it has gone for the upbuilding and success of the Republican party. Judge Kirk is a poor man. Why? Simply because he has never hoarded his salary, but has dealt with a free hand for the relief of suffering poor, the support of churches and schools, and the success of that party which he believes to be the best, the greatest, and the most conducive to the welfare and happiness of the people. Not only has he given lavishly of his means, but the night was never too dark, the storm never too furious, nor the battle too fierce to deter or shake for one moment his intrepid loyalty or cause him to halt an instant at his party's call. Where there was most to be done, where the heat and burden was heaviest, even though hope sometimes seemed gone, there he was always found, and few men in the whole Commonwealth have suffered for his party's sake, as he has done.

But there is a stronger and higher reason why Judge Kirk should receive this nomination. The people of this district are entitled to the ablest, the safest, and most experienced man they can find to fill this important place. In this, as in every other position, character and qualification are the essentials; and the people, in selecting their Appellate Judge, will be guided by the same motives they follow in selecting a man for any other work. Just as in the factory, in the store, in the bank, or on the farm, or in any other line, they want the best qualified man they can get for the job, so in the office of Appellate Judge, qualification will be their guiding star, and rightly so, for the business of this important position is to decide questions affecting their liberties and their rights. The people realize that this is a plain business proposition, and they are going to settle it in a plain, business way. They realize that qualification is essentially character and experience; and the fact that a man has had twelve years on the bench and has given satisfaction is just as strong a reason why he should be honored, as faithful and efficient service are reasons why the capable and competent man should be retained in positions of responsibility in private lines. Judge Kirk is a man of mature years, level, safe, wise, of unquestionable legal ability, and fearless in the discharge of duty. As Circuit Judge of the 24th Judicial district he never missed a term of court, a and was reversed less than any Circuit Judge in the State. He is broad, liberal, charitable, public-spirited, and that the weight of his influence has always been thrown on the side of morality and public righteousness is amply proven by the high moral state to which he brought the 24th Judicial District when he was on the Circuit bench.

Voters, this is not altogether Judge Kirk's fight. It is your fight. You who are interested in good government, in public virtue, integrity and morality are concerned in this. The purity of your firesides, the welfare of your churches and schools, are sacred heritages, and you owe it to prosperity to guard them with a jealous eye. The duty you owe to your sons and daughters demands that you take no chances. These are matters with which it is not wise to try experiments. They are too vital. A mistake might prove disastrous to all that you hold near and dear to you. It is easy to tear down, but it requires years of hard work, painstaking care, and unswerving loyalty and fidelity to duty to build up. The fabric of good government is a delicate thing. The human that is in us all makes it yield more readily to evil than it yields to the good; and an unguarded step can produce damage that requires years to repair. Your duty is plain. Peace, no less than war, hath her struggles and her victories; and the patriot who stands four square against all the evils that assail the bulwark of good government, of civil righteousness, and a square deal, is as much of a hero as he who faces the rattling artillery of a foreign foe.

These, fellow Kentuckians, are the issues in this campaign; and upon your shoulders rests the responsibility of meeting them squarely. It is your business, and the fight is truly yours, for you are the winners or the losers in this race. Able, fearless and efficient government is your greatest public asset, and as liberty-loving, God-fearing citizens of this great Commonwealth you owe it to yourselves, to your family, to your country and your God to cast your influence where you are sure experience and ability, integrity and honesty of purpose will safely guarantee these ends—for the man who is safe and sane, whose head is level and whose heart is in the right place.

JUDGE KIRK MAKES SWORN STATEMENT

As to Falsehood Being Circulated by Lum Wheeler and John Wheeler's Little Paper, the Post.

In order to injure the good name of Judge Andrew J. Kirk, in his race for the Republican nomination for Appellate Judge, Lum and his brother John's little paper have been circulating a report that Judge Kirk had received money in his race for Appellate Judge. These falsehoods on the part of the Post only shows how far some men will go in order to try to injure a respected and honored citizen.

Below is a sworn statement from Judge Kirk which will put at rest this falsehood:

STATE OF KENTUCKY,
COUNTY OF JOHNSON, ss.

Affiant A. J. Kirk states that he has been informed that an editorial was published in a paper called the Paintsville Post, which is edited by C. B. Wheeler and owned by John W. Wheeler, which editorial stated in substance that the corporations were furnishing affiant money to make the race for the nomination for Appellate Judge and had furnished this affiant $2,500. The affiant says that said statement is false and untrue; that he has not received one penny or any amount whatever from any corporation—either directly or indirectly—that he has not received any contributions from any source except $225 donated by his personal friends, and that said statement in said paper was made as affiant believes with malicious intent to try to injure this affiant in his race for the nomination for Appellate Judge and is wholly unfounded and untrue.

Subscribed and sworn to before me by affiant, A. J. Kirk, this 17th day of July, 1916.

D. J. WHEELER,
Notary Public Johnson County.

Latest reports from over the district indicate that Judge Kirk is a winner in the race for Appellate Judge. Ask any of the candidates who the race is between and he will invariably answer that it is between himself and Judge Kirk. Each of the candidates are fighting Judge Kirk, and that is a good indication that each realizes that Kirk is the leader in the fight.

Judge Kirk is not saying unkind things about his opponents. He is making a clean race for the office of Appellate Judge. Four years ago he was defeated for this office on account of the split in the party when about 14,000 Republicans voted the Progressive ticket. Now the party is reunited and he is entitled to this nomination. He should have no opposition.
